RESPECTUS OF A PAPER

TO BE PRINTED IN ALEXANDRIA,

ENTITLED,

THE COLUMBIAN.

THE Subscriber, anxious to establish a
P. who whose contents and principles will be satisfactory to the moderate or both parties, presents to his friends and the liberal public in general, the following outlines of his plan, hoping that they may be consonant to feelings warm in the defence of liberty and the true interests of the country.

The work will at all times be open to the discussion of political matters, destitute of ancor on the one hand, or of overweening partiality on the other. The Editor's selections shall be made with care and attention, never sacrificing for any purpose the real interest of the community, or wandering from the established standard of truth.

In the natural course of affairs, it will sometimes be necessary, from a want of political matter, that the columns of a paper should be supplied with moral disquisitions, practically useful and interesting, and instructive anecdotes from historic research. Nor can this course be well objected to by those whose feelings are alive to the cause of genuine morality and religion. The Editor calculates with confidence upon receiving from those whose education and means of information will authorize it, a copious supply of materials on these subjects. His paper will be at all times open to receive the reflections of the man of science, or the deep research of the critical scholar.

Communications upon all matters, touching Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures, together with plans for the general improvement in Canals, public Roads, and the various discoveries in any branch of learning or the mechanic arts, will be particularly sought after, and punctually inserted.

The editor, earnestly desirous to conciliate parties, will use his most strenuous endeavors to effect so desirable an object—and in the town of Alexandria, where he is attached by the strongest ties of nature, and of interest,
he will ever consider it as a primary object, to destroy those seeds of dissension which have had the tendency to retard the growth and prosperity of the town. It is obvious to the most superficial observer, that the minutia of politics cause a difference of sentiment, and not those general and universally admired maxims in governmental institutions.

The principles of the great and illustrious Washington, together with his services, shall ever be revered.

The editor is far from desiring to impose on the minds of those who may favor him with their patronage, that his mind has assumed no stand on the important subject of politics, not on the contrary, he unequivocally declares, that his sentiments are decidedly republican.

As soon as 400 subscribers shall be obtained this paper will be printed, weekly, at 2 50 cents per ann. payable, half yearly, in advance, after the receipt of the first number.

It will be printed with a neat type, and on good paper of the ordinary size.

If adequate encouragement should be offered, after the commencement of the paper,
it will be published three times a week.

Having made arrangements for the necessary materials, and contracted with a gentleman of abilities to assist in the execution of the work, the citizens of Alexandria will be immediately waited on for their patronage—Subscription papers will also be left at the Col-fee House and at the principal Book Stores,

T. Longden.

Public Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust from Alexander Smith to the subscribers, to secure the payment of a sum of money to the Bank of Alexandria, will be exposed to sale, on the premises, on Wednesday the 13th day of July next, a piece of ground with the houses and other improvements appertaining thereto, lying on the south side of Duke-street & west side of Water-street, being at the intersection of the streets, extending on Duke-street forty feet, on Water-street ninety-one feet six inches to a ten feet alley—upon a credit of 6, 12, and 18 months, the purchaser giving notes for the several payments negotiable at the Bank of Alexandria, with an approved indor-ser, and a deed of trust upon the property to secure the payment of the notes.

WILL BE PUBLISHED

IN A PAMPHLET AT THIS OFFICE IN A SHORT TIME,

AN ADDRESS

TO THE

PEOPLE OF THE U. STATES,

ON THE IMPORTANCE OF ENCOURAGING
AGRICULTURE & DOMESTIC MANU-FACTURES:

Tending to shew that by a due encouragement of these essential interests, the nation will be rendered more respect-table abroad and more prosperous at home.

TOGETHER WITH AN ACCOUNT OF

The Improvements in Sheep at Arlington.

The native Sheep of Smith's Island, and the plans proposed of extending this valuable race of animals, for the benefit of the country at large.

By GEORGE W. P. CUSTIS Esq.
Of Arlington House, in the District of Columbia.

AT a time when the energies of the nation seem awakened to the state of our foreign and domestic concerns, we conceive that the important interests of Agriculture and Manufactures should meet with a considerable share of the public discussion. Certain it is, that at no period of our political history could these national subjects excite more interest or be more properly urged to the notice of the public mind. The unsettled and impending appearance of our foreign affairs, and the present disturbed state of the European world, renders it doubly necessary for the citizens of America to cherish and promote their domestic policy, whereby they may derive those resources which are now obtained from abroad and create wealth and industry within themselves. Too long have these important and patriotic interests been neglected. The nation now feels their want, and we trust will duly provide for their support. Government, hitherto engaged in other concerns, will now cherish those domestic institutions, which will promote the nation's dignity and promote the people's welfare.

Of the merits of the little work we are about to issue to the public, it is not our province to decide; but of the advantages to be derived from its sale we would beg leave to say every thing which a disinterested exertion in the cause of Domestic Manufacture justly demands—And as the profits of this work, after the expenses of publication are paid,
will be solely devoted to the purposes of the Arlington Institution, we may hope and confidently expect a liberal patronage from a discerning and patriotic community.

AN ACT

Introducing into one the several acts for the regulation of the market, et, for the adjustment of weights and measures, and fixing the size of bread.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted, by the common council of the town of Alexandria, that all days of the market, except, only, that from the 1st day of April to the 1st day of October, all be exposed for sale.

SEC. 2. Be it enacted, That the common council shall annually, in the month of April, or October if necessary, appoint a fit and proper person to act as clerk of the market; and it shall be the duty of the person so appointed, to have the market house kept clean and the regulations observed; to provide, at the expense of the corporation, a set of scales and adjusted weights, to keep them in good order, and always to weigh all articles of provisions which may be bought by any person, without receiving any fee, to attend at the market house every day during market hours, to enforce the provisions of this act, by seizing all articles forfeited under the same, and to use his best endeavors to recover all fines incurred, to make a regular return, once a quarter, to the clerk of council, of all seizures made and fines recovered by him, and of the manner in which they shall have been disposed of, to pay into the treasury, once in every month, the amount of all fines recovered, and the money arising from the sale of the seizures made, to publish, at least once a week, in the newspapers, the assize of bread, according to the existing regulations of the common council, and from time to time to visit the several bake houses, and other places where bread is sold, to examine the weight of such as may be there exposed for sale, and to seize all which shall not be made according to regulations then in force, and to rent out the stalls of the market house, collect the rents, and, after deducting a commission of five per cent. therefrom, to pay the proceeds to the treasurer of the corporation.

SEC. 3. Be it enacted, That the market hours shall continue during the morning until ten o'clock from the 1st day of April until the 1st day of October, and until 11 o'clock from the 1st day of October until the 1st day of April, except on Sundays, when the market shall close at nine o'clock.

SEC. 4. Be it enacted, That no person shall, during market hours, make sale of, or offer, or expose to sale, nor shall any person purchase any kinds of meat, poultry, butter, eggs or vegetables, at any place within the corporation, except at the market house. Every person who shall sell, or offer or expose to sale, any of the articles aforesaid, and every person who shall purchase the same, contrary to this act, shall severally forfeit and pay two dollars. Provided That nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to the sale or purchase of butter in firkins, beef and pork for salting or already salted, or of fish.

SEC. 5. Be it enacted, That no person shall sell, or offer, or expose to sale, in the market house, any kind of provisions, except beef, pork and fish, after it has been salted or dried, which had been before purchased there, or at any other place within the limits of the town; all provisions so exposed to sale, shall be forfeited and seized by the clerk of the market, and the person selling or exposing them to sale, shall, for each offence, be subject to the penalty of four dollars.

SEC. 6. Be it enacted, That no huxter or other person who usually purchases provisions for the purpose of selling again, shall, during market hours, purchase at the market house any greater quantity of provision there exposed to sale than shall be sufficient for the use of his or her own family; and if any person shall, during market hours, purchase a greater quantity of provision than is hereby allowed, the surplus shall be forfeited and seized by the clerk of the market, and the person offending shall, moreover, forfeit and pay for each offence two dollars.

SEC. 7. Be it enacted, That no person or persons shall offer or expose to sale any blown, mealy, tainted or unsound meat at the market house or at any other place within the limits of the corporation; any person or persons so offending, shall for each offence forfeit and pay two dollars; and, moreover, all meats so exposed to sale shall be forfeited and seized by the clerk of the market; and if blown shall be sold by him, but if disordered or unsound shall be buried.

SEC. 8. Be it enacted, That all butter which shall be exposed to sale in pieces or in cakes, purporting to be of a certain weight, and which shall be found, on trial, not to contain the weight pretended, shall be forfeited and seized by the clerk of the market.

SEC. 9. Be it enacted, That all Indian corn meal, which shall hereafter be sold within the corporation, shall be sold by weight, and not otherwise, allowing forty-eight pounds to the bushel, and in the same proportion for any greater or less quantity; any person who shall offer any Indian corn meal for sale, in any other manner than is herein prescribed, shall forfeit and pay two dollars for every offence.

SEC. 10. Be it enacted, That all loaf bread exposed or offered for sale within the limits of the corporation, shall be in loaves of the weight of 8, 4, 2 or 1 lb. and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the market, or any sworn officer of the corporation, to seize all bread which shall be of less weight than that which it purports to be, but who shall, nevertheless, make a reasonable allowance for the deficiency in weight of old or stale bread. When any material alterations shall have taken place in the price of flour, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the market to apply to three respectable purchasers of flour within the corporation, for a certificate of the cash price thereof, and to publish in the newspapers, and in some conspicuous place in the public market, the price for which each loaf shall be sold.

SEC. 11. Be it further enacted, That all and every person, who shall offer or expose for sale any loaf bread which shall be of less weight than that which it purports to be, or who shall ask demand, or receive any greater price than that which is fixed by the clerk of the market under the laws and orders of the council shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars for every such offence, and all provisions forfeited under any clause of this act shall be disposed of by the clerk of the market, and the proceeds paid to the treasurer of the corporation.

SEC. 12. Be it further enacted, That in all cases of seizure made under this act, the party affected thereby may appeal from the decision of the clerk of the market or person making the seizure to the mayor or other magistrate within the corporation, the clerk of the market for the person making the seizure shall immediately for if the seizure be made during market hours upon the close of the market take the articles seized before the magistrate to whom such appeal shall be made, the magistrate shall hear the allegations of the parties, examine such witnesses as may be produced, and determine thereupon to the true intent and meaning of this act.

SEC. 13. Be it enacted, That the person appointed clerk of the market shall also hold the place of scaler and adjuster of weights and measures. It shall be his duty to provide at the expense of the corporation a complete and regular set of weights and measures, agreeable to the standard of the commonwealth of Virginia, and to keep them in good order and always correspondent to the said standard. He shall at least twice in every year, examine and try all scales, steelyards and weights, and all cloth, dry, and liquid measures made use of within the corporation, and adjust the same to the standard above mentioned; and when so adjusted shall stamp or brand them with the letters A. C. in some conspicuous place, unless they should be already stamped or branded as herein directed for which last mentioned services, the scaler and adjuster of weights and measures, shall be entitled to demand and receive the following fees, that is to say, for every pair of scales, or steelyards adjusted and stamped, twelve cents; for every dry measure adjusted and stamped, or stamped, twelve cents; for every liquid measure adjusted and stamped, or stamped, three cents; for every weight above 7 lb. adjusted and stamped, six cents; for every weight of 7 lb. and under adjusted and stamped three cents; for trying and examining any of the aforesaid scales, steelyards, weights, or measures which had before been stamped, or branded, if they be found to correspond with the standard and not to require any alteration, one third of the fees allowed above except that he shall receive no compensation for any other than the first examination in each year; but in all cases and in every examination where any steelyards, scales, weights and measures which had before been stamped or branded shall require any alteration to make them conformable to the standard, the scaler and adjuster of weights and measures shall be entitled to the same fees as are here allowed for adjusting and stamping or branding.

SEC. 14. Be it enacted, That it shall for them be the duty of the adjuster of weights and measures, to adjust the weights and measures of every person requesting him so to do, and tendering the fees allowed for the same, and to brand or stamp the weights and measures so adjusted, according to the directions of this act; and if he, at any time, shall have just cause to suspect, or information be given him, that any person makes use of false weights or measures, he shall examine the weights and measures of such person, and adjust them to the proper standard, if they be found to vary therefrom, for which services he shall be entitled to receive the fees before allowed.

SEC. 15. Be it enacted, That every person who shall make use of false steelyards, scales, weights or measures, shall forfeit and pay for every pair of false steelyards or scales so used the sum of five dollars; and for every false weight or measure two dollars; and the said false scales, steelyards, weights or measures shall be seized and destroyed by the scaler and adjuster of weights and measures.

SEC. 16. Be it enacted, That if any person in buying or selling any article which is generally bought or sold by weight or measure, shall make use of any scales, steelyards, weights or measures not adjusted and stamped or branded according to the directions of this act, the person so offending shall, for every offence, forfeit and pay the sum of two dollars.

SEC. 17. Be it enacted, That if the clerk of the market and scaler and adjuster of weights and measures shall neglect or refuse to discharge the duties imposed on him by this act, in either capacity, or if he shall demand or receive any greater fees than shall be allowed him by the laws of the corporation, or if he demand or receive any fee where none shall be allowed, he shall, for each offence, forfeit and pay fifty dollars, and shall moreover be removed from office.

SEC. 18. Be it enacted, That for the several duties to be performed by the clerk of the market, and scaler and adjuster of weights and measures, he shall receive from the common council, in addition to the fees before allowed, an annual salary, to be, from time to time, fixed by the said common council.

SEC. 19. Be it enacted, That the several fines and penalties imposed by this act, shall be to the use of the common council, and shall be recoverable by warrant before a single magistrate, action of debt, or information in any court of record.

SEC. 20. Be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the butchers, and others, bringing the carcass of any slaughtered animals to market, to carry from thence the feet, heads and hanks of such animals remaining unsold; and any person leaving in the market space, or throwing, or causing to be thrown, into the street any feet, heads or hanks of such animals, shall forfeit and pay the sum of two dollars for every such offence.

SEC. 21. Be it enacted, That all acts coming within the purview hereof are hereby repealed; and this act shall commence and be in force from and after its passage.

Passed in common council 2d July, 1808.

LETTER

From a gentleman in the interior of N. Hampshire, to his friend in Boston.

" ———, June 15, 1808.

DEAR SIR,
The change of political sentiments in this state, within a few months, has been almost too great for your belief. It is true, this state was not so democratic, as from the elections you would imagine. Finding themselves likely to be in the minority, in respect to other states, and that the contest against the spread of democracy, would be here but of little importance, the federalists rather relinquished than were overcome by the democratic party. And from acquiescence, became, as it were, amalgamated with the democrats; and were willing to have continued in this state of things, for the sake of peace. At the last election for members of congress, no opposition was made to the democratic ticket, which prevailed but by a small majority; and had there have been any exertion it is more than probable a different set would have been chosen. The same thing happened with respect to the electors. A ticket was prepared by some federalists, and published; but a few of the list declined the election, the thing was given up, and the democratic ticket prevailed.
For these three years past, no opposition has been made with us to the democratic candidate for governor. No body expected to find in him a great man, but there has been no cause of complaint against him, as a persecutor.
Things appeared to go on smoothly, and all parties appeared to be disposed to be quiet and contented; and would so have remained, but for the republicanism of the federal government. As little or no influence has been made with the people to direct their mode of thinking, except what came from the democratic press; they have in general formed their opinions upon cool deliberation. The stuff read from the democratic newspapers, they have long been accustomed to disregard as trash, intended to impose upon them.

"There can be no wonder at the great change which in appearance has taken place in the state. First, it is to be considered, that the majority never were decidedly democratic, but accidentally so from many fortuitous causes; and being now able to form their opinions deliberately, they must naturally be supposed to be correct. And their opinions are decidedly formed, and very openly expressed. "If (say they) war we must have, we will have it with France and not with England." "The embargo is worse than a war; there appears to have been no cause for laying it, much less for continuing it." Whether the measure was dictated by Bonaparte, or is intended to operate against England, or to preserve our ships and seamen, it is alike injurious, and has done no possible good, but will bring our country to ruin. "Our ships are rotting—our seamen gone—our produce we cannot sell—our debt we cannot pay—direct taxes will be levied upon us—and discontent and dissension will prevail, and we in the end fall a prey, either to intestine broils, or to some foreign invader."

"The idea of not trusting the merchants with the management of their own property, is treated with great ridicule. In every gathering of the people, either at courts, or trainings, or meetings, or at taverns, or private houses, this subject is well, and as impartially discussed as it would be on the floor of congress; and the conclusion invariably is against the competency of the present rulers. With one voice the people say, "there must be a change," and a most radical one there will be.

"Great complaints are made of the paucity or inactivity of their former federal leaders—they hope they will arouse from their stupor. They are surprised that a federal ticket of representatives and electors has not been formed. "Perhaps," say they, "it is owing to their knowing what course the general court will take with respect to the choice of electors." But as it is now decided that the choice shall be by the people, it is presumed that the people themselves in different parts of the state will agree upon a ticket.

The present legislature are democratic; and undoubtedly Madisonians, Embargoists, &c. and would have chosen the electors if they had not dreaded the consequences. It is generally supposed that had exertions been made, a very different legislature would have been chosen—and little doubt is now entertained of the Federal ticket's prevailing by a large majority; and the vaunted lies of the democrats will avail nothing.

Please to let me hear from you soon.

Your friend, &c.

"P. S. I am sorry to inform you that we have disagreeable accounts of opposition being made to levying executions in different parts of the state. There is no knowing to what length this may be carried by a misguided though at the same time an oppressed people. An attempt was made at the general court, and a bill brought in, to suspend the levying of executions, during the embargo; but so glaring a measure met with no support."

FROM THE LONDON GLOBE. CURE OF HYDROPHOBIA.

Attested by the late Dr. Turnbull.
Robert Dixon, a weaver, of Northampton, near Berwick, was bitten by a dog known to be mad, on the 30th of July, 1781; and what is very uncommon in this case, was attacked on the same day in which he received the bite with pains in the wounds which the animal had made on the outside of his leg, about two inches above the ankle. These pains extended to his knee, and gradually ascended to his thigh, from thence to his stomach, occasioning sickness in that organ and great weight and oppression on his chest. These sensations daily increased to the 18th of August, when every symptom became more and more severe, succeeded with violent convulsions and spasmodic struggles in the throat, which threatened immediate suffocation, particularly when any fluid was presented to him. These symptoms were accompanied with every other dreadful indication of hydrophobia. That Robert Dixon was perfectly recovered in the September following and was living, and in good health at the time this account was first published being a period of 23 years after the injury was received."

The mode of treatment applied, which first commenced some time after the 2nd of the leg wound.

3rd. A tea spoon electuary was a times a day: P. two ounces, vaunce, Sanchar camp, an dr conserve of woz up of seffoon, an electuary, given to assuage the throat w posed of opum, ds, and gum gal.

The last effectual remedy. On recovering he declared he expected from his plaster, after it was applied, nothing warm throat to his leg direction that it ascended; and a ful symptoms pretil a perfect reco.

The mode of treatment was as follows:
1st. To the wounded leg a caustic was applied, which kept discharging from the first commencement of the symptoms, till some time after the cure.

2nd. The leg was frequently bathed with warm oil.

3rd. A tea spoon full of the following electuary was administered two or three times a day: Peruvian bark, in powder, two ounces, valerian in powder, one ounce, anniseed of aniseed, one ounce; camphor, one drachm and a half; Russia, one ounce; musk, half a drachm; conserve of wormwood, four ounces; syrup of sassafras, a sufficient quantity to form an electuary. Opium was also liberally given to assuage the irritation and spasms. To the throat was applied a plaster, composed of opium, musk, camphor, assafoetida, and gum galbanum.

The last application seemed to be more effectual than any other medicine employed. On recovering his intellects and speech, he declared he experienced the greatest relief from his plaster; and that in a short time after it was applied, he felt an agreeable and soothing warmth, descended from his throat to his leg, in the same course and direction that the spasmodic stricture had ascended; and all the complicated and painful symptoms progressively diminished, until a perfect recovery was accomplished.

It is necessary, in this place, to mention as a farther and corroborating proof of the efficacy of this plaster, it was not had recourse to till the symptoms of hydrophobia had taken place. As this external application to the throat was attended with such happy success in the most dreadful stage of the disease, might it not have prevented the occurrence of this awful visitation altogether, had it been applied so soon as possible after the bite was received? It would certainly be recommended, at least to give it a trial, particularly as the mouth, throat, and other parts engaged in deglutition, form the principal seat of the disease; and as this malady, in my opinion, bears a strong affinity to nervous and spasmodic affections, the remedies above detailed, still farther claim our most serious consideration, especially when their administration have been accompanied with such success. N.B. There are but two well authenticated cases recorded in the annals of British medicine, where patients have recovered after symptoms of hydrophobia have taken place, viz. in the present case of Robert Dixon, and in the case of Elizabeth Bryant, as published by the late Dr. Nugent, of Bath.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.

Arrived, schooner Jefferson Campbell, 30 days from Kingston. Off the west side of Jamaica was spoken by the British frigate Molegas, bound to Port Royal with a deep loaded yellow sided schooner in tow, supposed to be a detained American. June 7th, off Colerados, fell in with a British homeward bound fleet, under convoy of two men of war brigs; the Orion and Sparrow was boarded by the latter and treated politely; kept in company with the fleet to the 19th. June 16th, off Maranilla reef, was boarded by the British man of war Fire Fly, Lieutenant Boyd, formerly the schooner Antelope, of Philadelphia and treated politely; the Fire Fly was thirty six hours from New Providence; Lieutenant Boyd informed captain C. that previous to his sailing, official accounts had been received at N. Providence of a naval action up the Mediterranean, between a British squadron of 3 sail of the line, and thirteen French; that the latter were completely beaten, having three taken and two sunk; and that the British admiral, Sir Richard Sprague, was killed; also, that Bonaparte had made Talleyrand king of Portugal. June 3rd, off Havana, spoke ship Medley, bound, thirty eight days from Jamaica, to Boston.

By those who have for a number of years kept daily remarks on the weather and the state of the thermometer, yesterday is pronounced the warmest experienced in this city during the last ten years.

Alexandria Daily Advertiser.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 6.

At the request of the Washington Society we have been favored with a copy of the Oration delivered on Monday last by J. D. SIMMS, Esquire—it shall appear on Monday next.

The following are the TOASTS drank by the Alexandria Volunteer Blues and a number of the Citizens of Alexandria, at Purkis's garden, on Monday last, the fourth of July.

- 1st. The Day we celebrate, and all who honor it.
- 2nd. The President of the United States.
- 3d. The Vice-President of the U. States.
- 4th. The Heads of Departments.
- 5th. The Memory of the illustrious Washington: though his presence no longer animates our military parades, may his farewell address be respected as our general orders.
- 6th. The Memory of those brave Heroes who fell in contending for the rights we enjoy—May we duly appreciate the magnitude of the prize acquired by their valor and patriotism.
- 7th. The surviving war-worn Veterans of our Revolution—May their silver locks excite the anxious care and obtain the merited reward of their government.
- 8th. The District of Columbia—May its internal improvement and facility of intercourse, cement our interests and harmonize us as one common family.
- 9th. The Permanent Seat of the National Government—Congress Hall upon its Corner Stones, and its Advocates for Removal upon Wheels.
- 10th. Our Ancient Parent State, Virginia—her right of suffrage bottomed on her soil—she has reared sons an ornament to the world—May we not lessen in our attachment to her, though some of the withered branches of her family have endeavored to prevent the annual visit of her infant children in the district of Columbia.
- 11th. Our Foreign Relations in equal scales—May we cease to respect those that fail to respect us.
- 12th. The Congress of the United States—May they bear in recollection, the wisdom, firmness, and disinterested patriotism, which animated their forefathers this day 32 years, and may the course they take, at their next meeting, prove alike felicitous.
- 13th. The Fair Daughters of Columbia—Should we draw the sword they must draw the thread.

A corn shelling machine is advertised in a Kentucky paper, which may be worked with the ease of a common grindstone by hand, and will shell an hundred bushels of corn in a day. It may also be worked by a horse or water, and is very simple and not likely to get out of repair. The price of making it is about twenty dollars.

THE RESURRECTION.

The following extract is taken from the fifth book of Mr. Stewart's Poem, where the author coming more immediately to his subject, apostrophizes the sun on the morning of Resurrection. His description of the effects of the last Trumpet—the bursting of the tombs—awakening of the dead, &c. form a picture awfully sublime, and may enable our readers duly to appreciate the merits of the work.

(Charleston Courier.)

Hail! glorious Orb! who since young time was born,
Hast lit with smiles the rosy realms of morn;
Herald of light and life! whose genial rays,
O'er glad creation pour the vital blaze—
Thou too must fade, when elemental war,
With fiery rage dissolves each glittering star!
Thou, radiant Moon! shalt lose thy milder light,
And rule no more fair regent of the night!
Ye beauteous planets, that triumphant roll;
Ye stars, whose silver studs the vivid pole;
All, all your worlds shall melt in fervent fire,
And in one grave with death and time expire!
Yet, yet awhile, O Sun! thy lustre shed,
O'er the last morn, to light the slumbering dead,
Then in proud majesty thy race resign,
And own the hand that made thee was divine.
As by Sicilia's isle are softly seen,
Gay lemon groves and woodlands ever green,
While o'er the bright blue sea no pinnace flies,
Nor whispering zephyrs fan the glowing skies;—
All, all is calm, no restless billows rave,
Nor e'en an oar divides the plaintive wave;
Till the dimm'd sky thick clouds of ashes spread,
When the red lava gushes from its bed,
And whelms the plain; the hissing torrents roar,
Plough through the waves and boil along the shore;
From the deep calm the dreamless sleep below,
The heart, thus woke, the crash of worlds shall know,

Hark! in deep tones the bursting thunders roll,

Rock the high sky and rend the echoing pole:
Hark! to the awful blast the archangels sound;
When the last trumpet shakes the world around:

"Thou waning earth! resign each mould'ring form;
Wake, sleeper wake, nor fear creation's storm!"

Ye ocean waves! where e'er your billows sweep,
Yield the long dead from all your oozy deep;

Disgorge your victims, every corpse restore,
Death has expired, and death shall be no more!"

Swift through the lucid fields the Seraph fly,
Unbar the tombs, and lo! disclosed they lie—
The marble cements burst—in glad surprise
Ope from long sleep the death-exanguined eyes.

And view in chaste'd joy, and new amaze,
O'er ether's vast unnumber'd visions blaze;
Now the wide earth, from all her loneliest shores,

Wakes ages past, the earliest dead restores;
Fires every eye and shews every hand,
From burning Sego to the Scythian land,
From nameless climes the countless myriads move;

To meet the awful majesty above!
There, the dark colors of the torrid zone,
There every shade the frigid regions own,
Obey alike the trumpet's call,
And their same judge the one great Loam of all!

There too the sea, o'er all her trembling bed,
Sees vital vigor nerve the scatter'd dead;
Though the bleach'd bones in rude confusion lay,

Ten thousand fathoms 'neath her briny way,
Each shall know each, and every limb retain
Its long-lost pride of symmetry again.

What lovely form, from yonder opening tomb,
Rises to life, in beauty's fairest bloom?

Close on her bosom smiles an infant fair,
That seems impatient for the paths of air;
One snowy arm the riven stone divides—
Swift through the chink, the rosy cherub glides!

One gentle arm the eager boy restrains,
Who, just released, the joyant azure gains!
And on his cheek white beams of triumph glow,
And from her eyes while dew of rapture flow,

Around the heart hope's vivid splendors play,
And charm their spirits to the realms of day.

To the four winds of Heav'n, wide o'er the sky,
On nimble plumes the floating cherubs fly;

Heralds of God! In splendid phalanx steer,
To urge the tardy, and the just to cheer;
'Mid starry spheres, to rule, with guardian care

The untrod voyage through the deep of air.
Now o'er the virtuous breast new pleasure steals,
And all the soul celestial transport feels;

Near, and more near, it views with fond surprise,
Unnumber'd worlds in long succession rise,
Sees the blue vault with thronging millions shine,

And every orb its rival dead resign:
And, nearer still, with eagle glance surveys
The flaming sun, nor winks beneath the blaze.

See! o'er his brow while lambent glories play,
Immortal Newton feel the vital day;

He, whose rapt eye could search each distant sphere,
Unseen, unheard, by other eye or ear,
He, born to bless, improve, instruct mankind,

And pour the blaze of science on the mind;
He, whose high soul the paths of wisdom trod,
And found all nature speak of Nature's God;

Who, unsecluded by philosophic pride,
Proclaim'd the wonders of Omnipotence wide,
And, from creations unexplored before,
Taught man the source of Being to adore!

Now woke from sleep, once more, with joy reviews
The studded Heav'n's expand their silver hues.

Dark as the gloom, when warring tempests o'er,
Deep silent night enwraps the turbid shore,
VOLTAIN awakes!—the wild convulsive throes

Of death's last shock yet speaks despair and woe;
Emblem of that dread scene when vice no more

Could dare her prince of infidels adore;
Still, on his front indented horrors dwell,
His livid lips still awful struggles tell,

In terror's hour the Atheist clung to life,
Though—God blaspheme—he urged him to the strife,

He, who the band of impious sophists led,
Now starting groans, and writhes him on his bed,

LENT OR LOST,

The first volume of Chesterfield's Letters; WHOEVER has borrowed or found it will please to return it, or call and pay for the same.

ROBERT GRAY.

FOR SALE,
 My SEAT in King George county. It lies on the head of one of the branches of Mattox Creek, between four and five miles below King George court house, and on the main road leading from Fredericksburg to Mattox Bridge. The situation is healthy, affords fine water, embraces the great advantages of proximity to the court house of the county, church, mills, tobacco inspections, navigations, fish, fowl, oysters, &c. enjoys respectable neighbors and genteel society; and from its central position between Potomac and Rappahannock, thereby commanding the benefit of both these rivers, is particularly well suited to the business of any gentleman of profession. Wherefore it will be sold either with as much land as will afford a competent support of wood and water, with the improvements alone, or with between four and five hundred acres, as shall be most convenient to the purchaser; and possession can be had on the first day of January next. This land lies level, generally; possesses an abundance of materials for fencing, some timber for building and occasional repairs, a plentiful stock of fire wood and is of the usual soil in this neighborhood that does not lie immediately on the margin of the broad water courses.

The improvements consist of a dwelling house of convenient size, perfectly new, built of the best materials, handsomely finished with a fine cellar to it, and a variety of other accommodations for a genteel family—a store house with a counting room to it, and a fine cellar to the whole of that building also—a barn, comprising stable and granary—a good house with other accommodations for an overseer, and customary houses of other descriptions—to which are annexed a well laid off productive garden handsomely paved in, a good yard, some valuable wheat and grass lots, and orchards of a variety of selected fruits of the most approved kinds; and all well enclosed.

Also, another Tract of Land, in Culpepper county, containing about two hundred acres, mostly in wood, and unimproved.

In the event of the sales of the foregoing Lands, I will dispose of some valuable Negroes my Plantation utensils, some Household and Kitchen Furniture, Cattle, Hogs, Horses, &c. Among the latter are a pair of good Saddle Horses that match well for a Carriage, some excellent Work Horses, and a thorough bred Stud Horse only seven years old in April last. He is an excellent Foal getter, and from his size, blood, and figure, is justly entitled to be ranked among the first class of Horses in this country. The whole of this property, excepting my negroes, which I shall dispose of in my neighborhood for their own accommodation, will be sold under a small reserve that will be required in money, or at short dates, at private bargain, either on easy payments in the purchaser's own paper, if satisfactorily secured, for approved bonds well endorsed, property in Alexandria or its vicinity, or suitable merchandise.

The premises can be reviewed and terms made known by application to G. CHAPIN, esq. cashier of the Bank of Alexandria, or to the subscriber residing in King George county.
